

make an offer

green acre

The late Eva Gabor's Holmby Hills, California, estate of 21 years is for sale. Designed by architect Paul R. Williams, it was at one time the residence of Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow and of Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer.

vital stats: 6,414 square feet, one-acre garden, antique crystal chandeliers, three fireplaces, four bedrooms including master suite with skylight and balcony, lighted tennis court with viewing deck, pool, pool house with kitchen and sauna, greenhouse, two caretaker's cottages, high-tech security system cost: Priced at $2,500,000; contact Barbara Darnell at Hilton & Hyland (310-278-3311, ext. 201).
no dirt: The laundry has two washers and two dryers.

eva gabor
slept here

truth or tabloid?

the clapper?

the report: The Star (April 16) says that Cybill's sidekick Christine Baranski has an unusual way of getting into costume.

According to the tab, when Baranski claps her hands and stands with her legs apart, a wardrobe woman rushes over, gets on her knees and pulls the actress's pantyhose up for her.

the truth: There's a big run in this story. "That's hysterical," said the show's flack once she had stopped laughing. "I've never seen that happen. It couldn't possibly be true." Though the wardrobe women are attentive between shots, the most they do is help Baranski brush off some lint.

buying time?

the report: The Globe (April 30) reports that Don Johnson is so thrilled to be back in prime time with his new hit series, Nash Bridges, that he bought every member of the cast and crew a $300 watch.

the truth: "If this is true, he owes me a watch!" says Johnson's rep, Elliott Mintz. At a recent celebration held at Planet Hollywood in San Francisco (where the series is filmed), Johnson did give everyone a gift—but it was a gift from the heart: The occasional crooner sang a few songs. "It was a very festive evening, but that's the only thing that's been given [to the cast and crew]."

Christine Baranski

Don Johnson

hotspot buckhead diner, atlanta where: 3073 Piedmont Road, Atlanta; 404-262-3336 what: A stream-lined art deco diner, reminiscent of a Raymond Loewy railcar, that attracts the likes of Nicole Kidman, Arnold Schwarzenegger and Halle Berry.

why: To contemplate the history of the Olympic Games over a piece of white-chocolate banana cream pie what they eat: Elton John follows his spicy sweet-and-sour fried calamari appetizer with the fresh fish of the day; Kim Basinger counts calories with a light pasta dish sans oil; Stephen Baldwin is known to eat almost anything.

what it costs: Lunch prices range from $9 to $14; dinner entrées are under $17.

when to go: Before hitting the clubs on a weekend night on the town, or for a midweek power lunch to rub elbows with movers and shakers — Cheryl Fenton

