

📷 Cube Toast at Double Chin

When a menu has camera icons to draw attention to its photogenic dishes, you know it's next level. Peep the signature Cube Toast: Pieces of Bao Bao Bakery brioche are cooked in French-toast batter and sculpted into an edible vessel, which is then stuffed with fruit, mochi, Pocky, ice cream, cereal and other treats.

📷 Taiyaki at Taiyaki NYC

This fan-favorite New York ice cream shop has taken over Instagram with its namesake cones that are shaped like fish (red sea bream, to be exact). Choose between red-bean paste or custard filling, then select your soft-serve flavor and toppings—we're big fans of the unicorn taiyaki, which is crowned with a gold horn.

📷 Dole Whip at Citrus & Salt

A trip to chef Jason Santos's Mexican restaurant is best capped off with this pineapple soft-serve that's garnished with glazed pineapple relish. (Psst: You can—and should—add a shot of aged rum to the glass for $4.)
